Ballots Due On Monday

Return Date In C. of C. Election Extended From Jan. 5, Ripley Announces

The date for returning ballots in the annual election of directors of the Chamber of Commerce has been extended from January 5 until January 9, Monday, it was announced Wednesday by Wallace M. Ripley, secretary.

The extension was ordered by the committee in charge after it was pointed out that the ballots of members of the organization at Lake Tahoe might be late in arriving, owing to the irregularity of the winter mail schedule in the resort area.

Ripley reported Wednesday morning that a number of ballots from members of the organization in the lower section of the county have all ready been received and urged that those who have not marked their ballots do so immediately and return them promptly.

The committee in charge will meet Monday evening to tabulate the vote.

WESTERN PINE FEATURED IN BUILDING AN EXPOSITION

Lumbering Industry Completes Attractive Colonial Cottage To Demonstrate Qualities Of Product For Home Building To Visitors At Fair

SAN FRANCISCO — With the hanging of the striking blue shutters this week, the Western Pine Association completed the exterior of its attractive Cape Cod Colonial exhibition home on Treasure Island for the Golden Gate International Exposition, which opens on February 18th.

This small, five-room dwelling, known as the "Western Pine Home," has been built by the manufecturers of Idaho White Pine, Ponderosa Pine and Sugar Pine to demonstrate to the thousands of Exposition visitors the inherent qualities of these Western Pines for exterior and interior uses in house construction. Although several such homes are expected to be built in the area, the pure white Western Pine Home is the first one that has actually been completed. It is located on Lot 9-J, a space of 65 by 125 feet, which adjoins the large Homes and Gardens Building and is near the huge hangar, which will house the aviation exhibit at the south end of the island.

In effect, the Western Pine Home spans the American continent to bring this popular Colonial type of traditional New England architecture to the shores of San Francisco Bay where it is built entirely of the Western Pines, which are produced in the eleven states west of the Rockies. The house was designed by the well-known Boston architect, Royal Barry Wills.

The lumber and architectural woodwork throughout the Western Pine Home are of Idaho White Pine, Ponderosa Pine and Sugar Pine. Wide devel siding, shutters, doors of varying Colonial styles, paneling—both clear and knotty pine, and special detailed millwork are just a few of the many interesting features that will be exhibited in finished form in harmonious colors. The Western Pine Home is in the $5,000 to $6,000 class and will serve as a practical demonstration of the

YEAR'S TOTAL $30,827.85

New High Mark In Business Set By Local Office For 8th Consecutive Year

Receipts at the Placerville postoffice for the Calendar year just closed were $30,827.85.

This was the first time in the history of the office that the receipts have surpassed the $30,000 total and was the eighth consecutive year of which we have record, in which an increase has been shown.

The gross business of the office during 1938 was $1,899 in excess of the total business done by the office the year before.

The continuing increase in postal receipts is an argument for early action toward the erection of Placerville's projected new postoffice building and a reflection of the steady and continuing development of the business of the county seat and the surrounding trade area which the office serves.

According to figures aannounced by Postmaster Joseph Scherrer, stamp sales for the month of December were $3,424.80 which exceeded stamp sales for the month of December a year ago by $388.75.

Money orders issued by the Placerville office amounted to $20,103 in 1937 and showed a gain of $928 to reach a total of $21,031 for 1938.

The continuing steady growth of the community is reflected in the totals of postal receipts for the years beginning with 1930, which are as follows:

Nineteen and thirty, $18,254.24; Nineteen and thirty-one, $18,264.67; Nineteen and thirty-two, $18,844.49; Nineteen and thirty-three, $20,035.39; Nineteen and thirty-four, $21,761.34; Nineteen and thirty-five, $25,922.16; Nineteen and thirty-six, $27,733; Nineteen and thirty-seven, $28,928.85, and Nineteen and thirty-eight, $30,827.85.

GAME LAW VIOLATOR IS FIRST DEFENDANT AT GEORGETOWN

Stewart, arrested by Constable Gilbert Cook, was the first defendant to receive sentence before Justice of the Peace Drysdale, who took office on January 2.

One other case is pending in the Georgetown court. J. R. Jones was arrested at Georgetown on December 30 and was held in the county jail until January 3 when he was taken to Georgetown for a hearing before Mrs. Drysdale by Game Warden Al Sears.

Mr. Sears did not return the prisoner to jail and reports that the matter on which Mr. Jones was arrested, involving an alleged disturbance, was continued for hearing.

Mr. and Mrs. John Masters, of Shingle Springs, are the parents of a daughter born Tuesday at a Sacramento hospital.

JOURNAL PUBLISHES REVIEW OF EARLY COUNTY MINING

Pioneers Supposed Wealth Lay Only In River Near Site Of Original Discovery, Says Article By Veteran News Writer Of Placerville

The January issue of the California Mining Journal published a review of early-day mining in El Dorado County from the pen of Will O. Upton, of Placerville, as follows:

The first mining done in El Dorado County was river channel mining. It was in the gravel of the South Fork of the American River at Sutter's sawmill at Coloma in this, the "Empire County," that James W. Marshall, on Jan. 19, 1848, made the discovery of gold that was responsible for the founding of the great State of California and, in the '50's, contributed materially toward saving the Union during the dark days of the Civil War.

And though it was at first thought that only in this river was the precious metal to be found, it was not long before miners prospecting the adjacent streams and ravines leading down to the river discovered "diggins" equally as rich or far richer than the river bed.

Then they branched out in every direction. Going down the river, the next exceedingly rich deposits were found twenty miles below Coloma at Mormon Island, named by reason of its discoverers—Mormons, who had come out to California in Stephenson's Regiment at the time of the Mexican War—and by the further reason of the American River having divided at this point, leaving a strip of land between the two streams.

The next rich discoveries were made at Dry Diggings; named on account of the scarcity of water for washing gold at the time of its discovery; for this was a dry year and the creeks contained little water. It might be of interest to add that Dry Diggings became variously known as Ravine City, Tent City, Hangtown, and Placerville. It now retains the latter name. But it is better known throughout the world by the name unuder which it was known for the shortest time—Hangtown. Though this name has since 1854 given way to Placerville, we still have Hangtown Creek as a reminder of the days before a Legislature supplanted the more expressive and significant name by that of Placerville.

In the days of creek and ravine mining here, many fortunes were made. Two Oregonians, brothers, are said to have cleaned up, within a year, $100,000 apiece. Then they returned to Oregon and went into business. And others, working on Oregon Hill, named after these and other Oregonians who first worked there, made from an ounce of gold, then valued at an average of $18.00; to $120 or almost seven ounces every day.

It is said that $2,000,000 in all was taken from Oregon Hill, which lies within the city limits of Placerville. Perhaps $3,000,000 in all came out of Placerville's creeks and ravines. And, over the hill south of town, less than a mile away, $10,000,000 is said to have been taken from the ancient or "dead" river channel that flowed there centuries ago. In one spot of this rich deposit, Alderson Brothers are credited with having taken out $4,000,000 in pure gold from a space the size of a large dining room.

But as the placers gave out, or their operators were stopped by an anti-debris law, quartz mining took the place of gravel mining. For it

F.D.R. WARNS NATION

"Deadline Of Danger" To Democracy From Within And Without Is Cited

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, (UP) — President Roosevelt warned congress today of a "deadline of danger" to democracy from within and without, and unmistakably threatened economic sanctions against aggressor states.

He said that the United States would decline to "intervene with arms" to prevent aggression.

But then in his annual message on the state of the union—a message that bristled with bold challenge to dictator states—the President added:

"Words may be futile, but war is not the only meanus of commanding a decent respect for the opinions of mankind.

"There are many methods short of war, but stronger than mere words, of brnging home to aggressor governments the aggregate sentiments of our people."

Mr. Roosevelt asked specifically for amendment or revision of the existing neutrality laws to end the possibility that such statutes may aid, encourage or assist an aggressor nation in any manner.

Mr. Roosevelt delivered his message in person before a joint session of house and senate in the former's chamber of the second day of the first session of the 76th congress.

Miner Saved In Cave-In

Man Trapped Sunday In Comstock Workings Once Worked At Montezuma

Friends of George (Al) Peterson, a brother of Mrs. John Breasson, of El Dorado, and a former worker at the Montezuma mine, will be glad to know that he escaped without serious injury in a cave-in at the old South Comstock mine, near Virginia City, last weekend.

Peterson left this county and went to Nevada following the cessation of work at the Montezuma. Saturday morning he was working in a stope between the 300 and 400 levels of the mine when a fill caved in behind him and he was trapped.

Although he was without food or water and was suffering some from cold, Peterson was able to communicate with his rescuers and expressed himself as being mighty glad to get out when the rescue crew reached him sometime Sunday.

ARMSTRONG FOE - - - By Jack Sords

Sports Parade

By HENRY McLEMORE

PASADENA, (IP) — Seen, heard, and made up at the Rose Bowl game: Bob Zuppke of Illinois, the only football coach ever to defy and conquer an athletic board of control, was a spectator at the game between Southern California and Duke and expressed the opinion that the better team won . . . . "Southern California was the aggressive team. It carried the fight, it took all the chances," he said. "The Trojans made the show, and they deserved a victory over Duke, which was strictly a counter puncher" . . . Zuppke didn't think too much of the football played, however, and said he was sure that Michigan could have beaten either team without any too much trouble.

I don't know about Michigan, but I saw two teams during the regular season that would have won the Rose Bowl game right handily . . . I refer to Major Bob Neyland's Tennessee team and Dutch Meyer's Texas Christian outfit . . . Wallace Wade, Duke coach, is one who does not think that Southern California is the best team in the country or the best team his club has played . . . Wade thinks that Pittsburgh is the strongest football team in the country, and that Cassiano, Stebbins, Goldberg, and Chickerneo form the finest offensive backfield in history . . . right behind Pitt he ranks Tennessee.

Doyle Naves, the junior who threw the winning pass against Duke, lacks 122 minutes of playing time to make a Southern California letter. He has played but 53 minutes and 175 is required . . . Coach Jones said that he would see to it, however, that Naves got not only a letter, but a letter with palms.

The best lineman on the field in the Rose Bowl was not Harry Smith, U. C.'s All-America guard, or Dan Hill, Duke's mighty center, but a sophomore named Tom Maloney . . . Maloney, Duke left tackle, was on the second team until last week when he showed up so well in practice that Wade put him on the varsity . . . when Bob Spangler, the most conservative man on the Duke team, unwisely handled a punt on his own five-yard line late in the fourth period, and the ball got away from him to be decovered on Duke's 10 by Southern California, his teammates gathered about and said: "Don't let that worry you, Bob. We'll get you out of it." When they kept their word, and hurled back the Trojan challenge, Spangler called out: "Much obliged, boys" . . . Duke was leading 3 to 0 at the time, and the stonewall stand seemed enough to insure the Blue Devils victory.

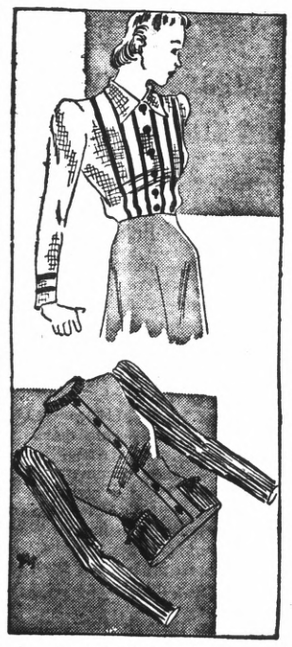

To mention Zuppke again, the Dutchman says Percy Houghton of Harvard was the greatest football coach who ever lived, and that Haughton, with Rockne, Warner, Harry Williams and Dobie, were the only geniuses who ever coached the game . . . "The rest of us," Bob said, "only work at it. They lifted coaching to the heights" . . .

At one time during the Rose Bowl game the California weather set a new high in variety . . . from his press box seat this observer saw, at the same time, the sun, the moon, blue sky, thunder clouds, and a rainbow . . . and he, meaning your observer, does not drink anything stronger than chicken broth.

Household Hint

Oiled silk covers, pouches and other food containers are a practical new contribution to the art of easy housekeeping. The containers are fitted with zippers to keep their contents fresh while the covers have elastic edges that fit snuggly over the rims of bowls, protecting them from dust and ice-box odors. A daily dipping in thick lukewarm soapsuds followed by rinsing will keep these handy gadgets sweet-smelling and clean.

beauty and comfort that can be incorporated into a small frame house and adapted to modern needs.

All the foundation timbers, as well as sash, frames and screens, were treated at low cost with Permatol, the new preservative for exterior millwork, first developed by the Research Laboratory of the Western Pine Association. The sheathing was applied diagonally to give added rigidity to the structure; Certigrade Red Cedar shingles were used on the roof; and such other important items as sheet lead flashings and white lead paint were provided to insure a first class pob.

Motion pictures have been taken of each stage in the construction of the Western Pine Home. It is expected that this film, entitled "Building a Home with Western Pines," will be released early in the new year. This will be the third sound-movie that has been made by the Western Pine Association.

Arrangements have been made to have the Western Pine Home furniture include some knotty pine bedroom pieces. Eighteenth Century mahogany furniture will be used in the living and dining rooms.

The landscaping will be simple, yet colorful, and will include a wide area of lawn with garden furniture made of Western Pines.

Every effort has been made to make the Western Pine Home one of simplicity and geauty both inside and out and yet well within the means of families of average income. Those who have seen the completed home predict that it will hold the spotlight of attention among the demonstration homes at the Golden Gate International Exposition. It is just the kind of a house that anyone would be proud to own. C. E. L. Measure, of the Western Pine Association's promotion staff, will be in charge of the exhibit.

ECLIPSES OF SUN, MOON IN 1939 WILL BE ONLY PARTIAL

EVANSTON, Ill., (IP) — Partial eclipses of the sun and moon will be visible in the United States during 1939, according to Dr. Oliver Lee, director of the Northwestern University astronomy department.

Dr. Lee said a total eclipse of the moon May 3 will be visible in the Eastern Hemisphere, while a total eclipse of the sun will occur Oct. 12 and will be seen as a partial eclipse from western Australia and the southern tip of South America.

An annualar eclipse of the sun on April 19 will be partial in the United States, he said, explaining that an annualar eclipse is one occurring while the moon is so far away from the earth that the rim of the sun is visible even at the moment of maximum eclipse.

Dr. Lee said that a partial eclipse of the moon would be visible about midnight through the Americas between October 27 and 28. He said there also would be two partially pribht meteoric showers.

BERKELEY—Financial and other returns to the 4-H clubs during the present year show that these farm boys and girls, averaging 13½ years of age, had a capital investment of $382,148 in crops and livestock from which they drew a net profit of $105,784 during the year.

The total membership of the clubs is 11,669, of whom 9,316 completed their projects of crop and livestock raising and home improvement. This is 80 per cent of the projects started.

There are 678 of the 4-H clubs in 42 counties of the state, directed by 1,462 adult volunteer leaders, assisted by 321 of the older boys and girls. The youngsters participated in 5,828 livestock and 5,424 home-making projects.

By far the greatest number of the boys and girls are under 15 years of age, although the age range is from 10 to 21 years. Despite their caplenty of time for play, attending tions on a sound basis, they took out plenty of time for play, attanding 46 summer camps in 37 counties.

The showing made by the young farmers is due to the fact that they produce only the choicest crops and livestock, and sell at the highest possible figure consistent with just and equitable dealing. They have been enabled in many instances to introduce programs of selective breeding, crop rotation and other progressive features that have aided all farmers in their respective districts. At the year's high inventory point, their beef and dairy holdings numbered 1,857 head, valued at over $104,400, and 3,575 choice swine, valued at $70,360. The poultry holdings consisted of 75,000 birds, valued at $69,771.

While the children have been given considerable assistance from their elders, the bulk of their investment and profit was achieved through their own efforts. Organization and maintenance of the clubs and their projects are under the direction of the University of California Agricultural Extension Service, with W. G. Waterhouse and F. M. Spurrier as the state leaders.

Spankings as Cure For Delinquency

Dr. Myers Writes That Parents Need to Train Their Children in the Real Meaning of "No"

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

THE Ohio Probation association is a non-profit organization that was created for the care and protection of children, both through a program of prevention of delinquency and for the sympathetic, intelligent treatment of children with behavior problems. Hannah L. Protzman, of Columbus, Ohio, is executive secretary.

This fine organization has just begun a monthly publication, The Ohio Crusader. In this first number I have an article on "Recent Developments in Attacking Juvenile Delinquency in the Home." To quote:

"In recent years we have been thinking of the home as the place where most can be done to attack the problems of juvenile delinquency —the whole problem of crime, indeed. . . .

Better Parents

"It is encouraging to see how many thoughtful parents are trying to learn how to be better parents. Thousands of them are meeting in study groups, discussing the problems of the child in all his relationships. And they are reading articles and books on these problems. . . . Welfare organizations are turning their attention to the possibility of preventing child-behavior problems and many family difficulties through parent education. For example, The Cleveland Welfare Federation has for a number of years conducted a rather extensive parent education program under the Health and Parent Education association of that city (the name lately was changed to Family Health association).

"Courses in home economics . . . school children are learning how to be better citizens in the family and community . . . nursery schools . . . colleges and universities offering courses in marriage, family relationships, and child development . . . clinics for child guidance and family counsel . . . progress among thoughtful parents in cultivating a sympathetic, understanding attitude toward the growing child. . . .

Right Direction

"All these developments seem to be in the right direction. Yet, we need to ask ourselves if self-expression has been properly balanced by self-control. . . .

"Acres of print and days of talk have been devoted to warning parents against restraint and inhibitions of the child even in his early years. Millions of parents have been told they would be brutes if they laid their hands on a child, even a tot, to restrain him. . . .

"I have long believed and written that if we are to check juvenile delinquency, parents, especially of the intelligentsia, will need to train their children in their early years in the unambiguous meaning of NO, and to this end bring back the good old-fashioned spanking with the hope that by the time the child is four or five he will have learned the essential basic inhibitions so well as to need no corporal punishment thereafter."

Household Hint

Any woman's kitchen may express her personality—and usually does. The very feminine housewife should go in for pastel shades on the walls and dainty, frilly, tie-back curtains. The vivid person will go in for splashes of bright color and maybe will have a mirror between cabinets over sink or range. Mirrors can create a certain glamor, and are not out of place in the kitchen. In fact they are very valuable if you want to be sure your nose isn't shiny or smudged with black when you have only a minute for primping before you serve your nicely-cooked dinner.

Cold? Start Shivering; It "Turns On The Heat"

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (IP)—There is one consolation for these cold shivering morningh. When you start to shiver, Nature starts stoking your body and heat production inside increases sometimes up to 400 per cent.

Dr. Raymond W. Swift, of the Institute of Animal Nutrition at Pennsylvania State College, says when you shiver, your body is producing more heat than it is when you're perspiring on a hot August day.

Prof. Swift spent a year in giving 21 subjects the "cold shivers" and then, with a special instrument of his own devising, measured the duration of their shivers, the intensity of the shivers and the heat production of the body during the periods of shivering.

"Intense shivering increases the energy metabolism or heat production of the body about 400 per cent," Prof. Swift said he had summarized his experiments. "The heat production of the body is proportional to the amount and intensity of shivering."

Early County Mines Noted

had early been discovered that quartz as well as gravel carried gold.

The first quartz vein in El Dorado County was found at Nashville eleven miles south of Placerville, and work was begun upon it as early as 1851, one year after quartz had been discovered at Grass Valley, where quartz mining has continued till the present day. Up to 1890 this mine had produced $12,000,000, according to statistics. How much since, we do not know. But Grass Valley is the leading producing area in the State. Though El Dorado County mines have produced their millions too, and the Kennedy and Argonaut mines of Amador County have also, still they cannot compete with Grass Valley for continuous production; however, the Amador County mines are credited with being deeper than any others, especially the Argonaut which has reached a depth of 6,600 ft. or 1¼ miles, and has been a consistent producer for years.

Among the first developed quartz mines of El Dorado County, besides the Nashville mine — from which $150,000 was taken by the crude methods of that day during its first years of operation; and which eventually put in a plant costing $1,000,000 and also paid dividends amounting to $50,000, even though the quartz assayed from only $3 to $15 a ton—we have the Union Gold Mining Co.'s property a few miles south of El Dorado.

It runs 3,000 feet along the Mother Lode. In '50-'52 the streams running from and through the property were so rich that 2,000 or 3,000 men, White and Mexican, earned a good living by operating arastras. But this settlement has disappeared along with the other early-day mining communities.

Prof. Silliman, years ago, first called attention to this property and induced Eastern relatives and friends to invest in this section, which consisted of the Church and Union Mines. The name finally became the Church-Union when Hobart and Lane bought the property. The Church-Union, which Hobart and Lane successfully conducted for a number of years, is reported to have produced several million dollars under their management. Then Hayward succeeded Lane as a partner in the company, and Hayward and Hobart conducted the mine sixteen or seventeen years, realizing several million dollars.

Hayward and Hobart changed the name of the mine to the Springfield. They worked the southern third of the 3,000 feet to a depth of 1,000 feet. But the vein broke and was lost, and they quit work. After lying idle five or six years, L. R. Poundstone worked the property successfully for some years. Then followed A. Harpending, who, it is claimed, took a million or more from the mine.

But the Union mine, despite its production of the past, has not been operative for a number of years; though there are those who claim that there is still much gold there, and that when capital to operate on a large scale is available, this mine will again become a producer; for several times it had been abandoned as played out after the vein had been lost, to come back as a producer when the vein had been rediscovered at a lower level.

Other mines once successful but now a thing of the past, with the exception of one, are the Crownpoint group of five mines in Diamond Springs district under the management of A. C. Morison; the Griffith Consolidated adjoining the Crownpoint and comprising ten claims; the Larkin, north of and adjoining the Griffith; the Gentle Annie mine, 1½ miles north of Placerville on Poverty Point; the Poverty Point mine 1½ miles further to the north; the Big Sandy and Gray Eagle mines in the Kelsey district, which are of historical value for the reason that James W. Marshall, the discoverer, owned a half-interest in the one and the whole of the other at the time of his death; the Gopher-Boulder, comprising the Gopher, Boulder, and the Dalmatia mines in Kelsey; the Gold Note mine at Grizzly Flat; the Grand Victory mine six miles southwest of Placerville; the Vandalia mine 4½ miles from Shingle Springs; the Big Canyon mine in the French Creek district, several miles southwest of Shingle Springs, and the only one of the old mines still being worked; and the Boulder mine on Webber Creek; the Taylor mine 4 miles west of Garden Valley, and the St. Lawrence mine adjoining it.

In addition to the quartz mines mentioned, there were exceedingly rich gravel deposits, most of which would be profitable today if the debris from them could be handled; but since the anti-debris law passed many years ago, they were compelled to suspend operations.

Probably one of the best known, as well as the richest, was the Georgia Slide mine a few miles from Georgetown. This was where the largest nuggets in El Dorado County were found. The mine yielded several million dollars. Then there was the Alderson Brothers' mine one mine south of Placerville, already referred to. Other well known gravel or hydraulic mines were those at Reservoir Hill, two miles northeast of Placerville, and the Spanish Hill mine one mile east of Placerville. These were second to the other gravel mines in production; but the Spanish Ravine placer gold was the purest found in the state.

According to a mint report, it was 987 fine, or $20.40 to the ounce; and the Reservoir Hill gold, on the same channel, was about as pure. While the average value of El Dorado County gold as a whole, was $17.94.

Burton Wiley left Wednesday morning for Greenville, Plumas County, returning to his teaching duties in the high school there, after spending the holidays here with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Burrus.

NORTH COAST DAMAGED SEVERELY BY 4-DAY STORM

PORTLAND, Ore., (UP)—A fresh winter storm, centered 600 miles off the mouth of the Columbia river, raced inland today, due to strike about sundown along the battered north Pacific coastline, and almost certain to add to the death and destruction wreaked by gales and the floods during the past four and one half days.

Thus far, at least four lives have been lost, and property damage has vaulted into hundreds of thousands of dollars. Beach resorts and towns along the Oregon and Washington coasts were hardest hit, broken and flooded by mountainous seas.

The weather bureau in Portland, ordering whole gale warnings hoisted from the California line to British Columbia, said today's new storm was a "pronounced disturbance." Whole gale warnings anticipated a blow of from 55 to 75 miles an hour.

PRIVATE PARTIES ON U. S. BOAT TO BE INVESTIGATED

WASHINGTON (UP) — Republican Hamilton Fish, R., N. Y., demanded a congressional investigation today of private parties aboard the government boat Eala in which Former Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper and other officials were alleged to have participated.

Fish said that if Roper or any official spent public money for non-public purposes, he shiuld be forced to reimburse the government.

Acting Comptroller General Richard N. Elliott charged in his annual report to congress yesterday that in 1934 and 1935, soda water, flowers, cigars and cigarette "were vouchered as paint, provisions or supplies' for the Eala. He estimated that the boat, which belongs to the steamboat inspection service of the Department of Commerce, costs $380 a week to operate, and that in the six months period on which he reported, $9,506 was spent "which was not authorized under the appropriation providing for inspection service."

WARREN PROBES BRIBERY CHARGE AGAINST NEW JUDGE

SACRAMENTO (UP) — Attorney General Earl Warren today announced a thorough investigation would be made of bribery charges involving a former boxing commissioner and one of former Governor Frank F. Merrimam's "Last-Minute" appointees to a superior court judgeship.

After a conference with Gov. Culbert I. Olson, Warren said he had determined to make the inquiry on the basis of statements made to him by Joseph H. Stevens, Sacramento banker and member of the Stat Board of Prison Terms and Paroles.

Under fire were Mark Lee Megladdery, Jr., Merriam's former secretary and Megladdery's former law partner, Edwin Geary, an unsuccessful candidate for reappointment to the Boxing Commission.

OHIO HIGH SCHOOL HAS MARRIAGE COURSE; 31 ENROLLED

CLEVELAND, (UP)—How to choose the right husband is being solved for John Hay high school seniors in a course added recently to the school curriculum.

In addition the girls learn what factors are conducive to a happy marriage and what should be the length and conduct of an engagement.

"We train for every occupation, but often neglect the most important one of marriage and give no thought to it," said Mrs. Winifred Weir, instructor of the 31-member class.

"We try to make the girls realize that marriage should hove not only a physical but a mental and spiritual basis also."

Parents have not objected to the class discussions because the various topics are handled in a tactful manner. The discussions cover all important phases of marriage—including how to care for a baby, plan for rent, clothing, meals on a limited budget and choose and furnish a home.

"No laws are set down, but all points are discussed thoroughly," Mrs. Weir said.

He spoke not to congress alone but to the nation and to the world. His words were broadcast in Europe and Latin America as he uttered them. At hourly intervals today his thoughts and his defense of democracy washed the world in translated versions. In Italian, Spanish, German, French and Portuguese the President's crackling thoughts girdled the globe.

"We are off on a race to make democracy work," the President said, and that challenge must have reached the ears of millions whose allegiance—forced or real—is to dictators.

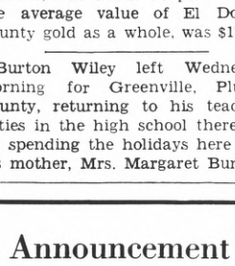

He said the time was short—"the hour glass may be in the hands of other nations."
